The Success of African American in Business – Mikaila Ulmer

Get to know Makaila Ulmer a bit more. She was born on September 28, 2004. Her parents are D'Andra and Theo Ulmer. She was born and raised in Austin, Texas. She attended St. Stephens Episcopal School. Thats some information about her.

This is how two bees made Mikaila Ulmer a success. In 2009, young Mikaila got stung by two bees when she was four and a half years old. Instead of running and hiding her parents encouraged her to study and learn about them. She saw that the bees were endangered so she started to help the bees and started a lemonade stand. Then in 2015 she started a business called Me and the Bees.

Theres are five flavors Original with mint, Ginger, Prickly pear, Iced tea lemonade, and Original. It has no high fructose corn syrup, it's made with real honey, and lemon juice. She helps the bees by spreading awareness about the importance of bees and she has a beehive in her backyard. She went on Shark tank. You can buy her lemonade on Amazon, Ebay, Instacart, and many more.

Mikila also wrote a book called "Bee Fearless: Dream like a kid". Shes one of the youngest authors to get her book published by penguin random house. She was only 15 years old when she wrote the book. The book also a part with a business guide. The book inspires little kids to face their fears and dream like a kid and be fearless.

In conclusion, Mikaila got stung by two bees as a young girl. After learning about the bees, she owns a popular lemonade brand using their honey. She wrote a book, finished school, and went to college! Thats why you shouldn't let your fears stop you.
